

ROMEO AND JULIET CLEVERLY STAGED BY PAIR OF STARS

Sothorn and Marlowe Leap
From Farce to Tragedy
In Single Night.

From farce to tragedy is a great big step, but it was taken with grace last night by E. H. Sothorn and Julia Marlowe, who after playing Shakespeare's "Much Ado About Nothing" and "Taming of the Shrew" on Monday and Tuesday, put on "Romeo and Juliet" at the Belasco Theater. It was the third production of the charming twin stars' two-week engagement, and brought forth a capacious audience of equal brilliancy to the previous nights.

Mr. Sothorn and Miss Marlowe last night were splendid in their portrayal of the lovers born from rival families, playing with finesse the man and woman who cast aside the feud, wed secretly and die for each other in a single tomb. It was such a contrast from the characters they took on the preceding evenings that their ability as players is reflected all the more.

Mr. Sothorn was an ardent Romeo. His supremacy becomes evident as early as the scene in the ballroom, where he meets Juliet. He is a masked intruder, and it is with dexterity that he shows his love for the maiden that by his family tradition he should hate. All through the play he is cleverness stands out and his long speech in the tomb, where Juliet is placed by those who think he has died, is made with rare feeling and able acting.

Miss Marlowe is magnificent Juliet, winsome, beautiful and coy, for whom one could not help to forget hate to love. Her charming playing is at its best in the balcony scene, when she confesses to Romeo that she loves but him and swears to him that she will not be true to any other. No prettier scene could be imagined, with the first faint rays of daylight breaking in the East. Romeo and Juliet pledge their undying affection for each other beneath the window of her chamber. Then within the chamber after they have been married there is a powerful scene when Romeo hides far away to Juliet to go into exile. This scene, too, belongs to Miss Marlowe, who sobe a broken-hearted last good-by with real emotion.

There are others who help make Sothorn and Marlowe's "Romeo and Juliet" a truly wonderful production. Lewis, as Mercutio, a fluent reader of blank verse and a convincing actor. Miss Ina Goldsmith, too, was good as Juliet's nurse, a character part filled with opportunities that were all seized. Sidney Mather, as Tybalt, John Taylor, as Benvolio, and Thomas Coleman as Friar Lawrence also were good.

Rid Your Face Of All Pimples

Skin Cleared in a Few Days by Stuart's Calcium Wafers, the Famous Blood Purifier.

Pimples, blotches, skin eruptions of all kinds, are simply the impurities in the blood coming to the surface. All the external treatment in the world won't do a particle of good unless you purify the blood. And there's nothing so humbling as to see your face that's all "broken out" and spotted.

Stuart's Calcium Wafers are absolutely harmless to any one. Their ingredients are just what a physician prescribes in most cases of skin eruptions and poor blood. The wafers are put up in a concentrated form, which makes them act quickly and thoroughly.

You can get Stuart's Calcium Wafers at any drug store at 50 cents a box. Begin taking them today and then look at yourself in the mirror in a few days, and find all those awful pimples, blackheads, acne, boils, liver spots, rash, eczema, and that muddy complexion rapidly disappearing and your face cleared like the petals of a flower.

RUBINSTEIN CLUB IN FIRST CONCERT OF WINTER SEASON

Displays Careful Attention to Every Detail of Chorus
Training.

Displaying that careful attention to every detail of chorus training that is attained only after patient hours of hard work, the Rubinstein Club gave its first recital of the winter in the ballroom of the Raleigh Hotel yesterday afternoon.

Throughout the entire program the high artistic sense of Mrs. A. M. Blair, director of the club, was everywhere evident. The chorus descended from the forte to the most delicate pianissimo with seeming ease, preserving the carrying quality of the voices with wonderful skill. Indeed, the ability to ascend from the pianissimo to the wonderful crescendos, softening again as the music demanded, but always maintaining the same vocal quality, was the marked achievement of the afternoon's entertainment.

"Spring Beauties," by Chadwick, was the opening number, and was followed by Matthews' "Indian Cradle Song." Two Nevin numbers were given, "Before the Daybreak" and "The Rosary," and in these numbers the shading ability of the chorus, noted above, was particularly remarkable, especially in the climaxes on the "Daybreak."

Herman Sibley, first cellist of the Philadelphia orchestra, played two groups of three numbers each. In the first group Mr. Sibley was delightful, but he was even more so in the second. In this second group were two of his own compositions, "Eliverhoj" and "Valravnen," which showed considerable skill in the composition of Danish music.

Mrs. Burdette was at the piano, and made an excellent accompanist, her sympathy with the chorus being evident throughout every number.

Tires of New York.

NEW YORK, Dec. 5.—After ten days in this city, "Rattlesnake Bill" Wallace said: "I'm going home to Albuquerque because I'm tired seeing New Yorkers wag their jaws on a piece of chewing gum."

Mrs. Estelle Ions Will Give Recital

Mrs. Estelle Willauby Ions, a young Washington woman composer, will give a recital in the red room of the Willard this evening, beginning at 9 o'clock. Mrs. Ions, who will be at the piano, will be assisted in the interpretation of her dance music and songs by Vera Hamilton, a mezzo soprano, and Helen Griffith, a dancer.

One instrumental number will be played by Mrs. Ions as a solo. The program comprises eight or nine songs, two dance numbers, and the piano solo number.

Bill Affects Police.

A bill to reorganize the police force of the Library of Congress was introduced in the Senate yesterday afternoon by Senator Swanson. It provides that the watchmen and additional privates of the Metropolitan police at the Library hereafter shall be carried on the rolls as Library of Congress police.
